Download : Add a ";" after each UserDefinedTimeZone entry in an NSDictionary I would like to get the time in an NSDictionary, but am having trouble finding a concise way to do so. I figured it would be easiest just to manually add a ";" to each entry, but what I need help with is the following: NSString *hms = [NSString stringWithFormat:@"%@;%@;%@;%@", [dictionary valueForKeyPath:@"@.hh:mm:ss"], [dictionary valueForKeyPath:@"@.ffffff"], [dictionary valueForKeyPath:@"@.ffffff"], [dictionary valueForKeyPath:@"@.ffffff"]]; The output that I'm looking for is as follows: hms = @"13:37:01;0;12:37:01;0;12:37:01" The above should be created by converting the following dictionary, which already has a ; between each element: dictionary = @{ @"hours" : @"13", @"minutes" : @"37", @"ffffff" : @"12", @"ffffff" : @"37", }; Is this possible? A: Try replacing the ";" with a ";;". See this in the GNU Basic wiki: ";;" is sometimes used instead of ";". It is also used in the online version of BNF; see also 3.5.1 Parens, Braces, and the Start of a Statement. Q: apply multiple ggplot2 plots into one I am wondering if it is possible to combine multiple ggplot2 plots into one in R or if I should produce separate plots and merge them afterwards? I have made the following code: for (i in 1:length 3e33713323
