I need a code to check user to provide email address. A: The task of checking for email addresses is fairly simple. Use either Validating Single Field Using Regular Expressions or USING Validation Procedures in Excel to check for a valid email address. Both have options for VBA (or you can use VB but I suggest that you use Excel's built in validation). You can also use a Form to ask the user for their email address. If you want more help, consider posting a specific problem / question. Plays for the EPIC collection of Naxos are based on the art of the International Theatre of the 17th and 18th century by the French. An enormous array of over 300 works includes the complete dramatic output of Jean Racine (197-1699), the first classic dramatist of France, along with works by Carlo Goldoni (1707-1793), the most important Italian playwright and a pioneer of modern theater in Europe, together with authors from other countries.Q: stubbing a property that accesses a static property in another assembly If I have a stub in one assembly that calls a method of a static class in an external assembly, is the stub able to obtain the value of the static class' property? I've tried doing this: [TestClass] public class StubTestClass { public void StubTestMethod() { var stub = new TestClass(); d0c515b9f4
