I have a JSF page in which I have a panel and some commandButtons. The panel elements get their data from a list of items I retrieve from the database. In the panel elements I have some values that I want to display when the panel is rendered. I use JSF to generate the panel elements with a for loop. The problem is that I want to log this data as well. To do this I use this code in my backing bean. I am trying to log the data in the actionListener of this commandLink. However this is where my problem lies. When I dynamically generate a link (there is one link for each item I retrieve from database and each item needs to be logged) the actionListener is called but there is no information in the out variable. e79caf774b
