Vidéo.Q: Understanding
reading/writing of Multidimensional arrays
in Matlab I have a matrix

---

X of size [2,2,2]. X is currently an output of a function, and I want to change its content to be able to plot it properly. I'm doing so in this way:

%save X to file fid =
    fopen('X.txt','w');
fprintf(fid,X); fclose(fid);
%load X from file X_I = fopen('X.txt','r'); X_I_my = fscanf(fid,'%f');
fclose(fid); %calculate Y Y
    = mod(X_I_my,4) - 0.5;

---

%plot Y
figure, pcolor(Y(:,:,1)),
hold on;

What I'm trying to do, is to write the content of X to file X.txt, then read it, and calculate it using the fscanf, and plot the result. However, when I'm trying to plot the output, in Matlab, I get a ??? Attempted to access field of non-structure array. message. I'm not able to understand what's going on, and how I can solve the issue.

Thank you very much,

Yours, Kompromat A:

Your code as given is not correct. %save X to file

fid = fopen('X.txt','w');
fprintf(fid,X); fclose(fid);

You have not written your X to the file, instead you are just closing it. To change the contents, write the desired content to the file as opposed to reading from it. %save X

---

to file fid =

fopen('X.txt','w');
fprintf(fid,X); fclose(fid);

You are also using an incorrect indexing to read the array. X_I_my = fscan
