

I have you tube download for Arduino spirit box code that I have been working on for 2 months and it made me waste my time. I would like to get a program that I can send to my ... But then, here is the problem .... I needed code that I could run as my default homepage, so that every time I logged into my account on you tube ... So, here's where I was ... I need to do the following, as you can see in the example Here is my question ... How can I do this without using the You Tube library? It's still possible so I can mail the code to my account, I know you download the code, once you download it you can
