Innocent Blood was written, directed, and produced by James Wan. It is a remake of the 2010 Hong Kong martial arts film of the same name. It stars John Malkovich, Max Minghella, Robert McCollum, and Louis Mandylor. The film premiered in competition at the Toronto International Film Festival on September 8, 2012, and was theatrically released in the United States on October 12, 2012. Plot In the United States, Frank, a young man, is found dead in his apartment. His blood is on a can of tomato soup, which is missing from the kitchen. A bloodied knife is found in the apartment's rubbish bin. The police investigation is led by Detective Lindsay Monroe, a half-black, half-white woman. She interviews Frank's roommate, Chris, who claims to have been at the movies with Frank the night before. He is ordered by Detective Monroe to give a blood sample. However, Frank's blood group is AB, which is rare and usually found in 0.2% of the population. Chris is also blood type AB, so Chris is the prime suspect. The case becomes complicated when Detective Monroe realizes that Frank had been involved with a murder case in the past. She asks her partner, Detective Jack Cahill, to search for Frank's daughter Lucy. Jack and Lindsay find a clue to Frank's past in a video of Lucy, who is adopted and kidnapped. After questioning, the detectives realize that Lucy has been missing for 13 years and are shocked to discover that she has been kidnapped by the same man who kidnapped Frank, "Aunt" Moira. With no time to spare, the detectives convince Cahill's partner, Detective Malcolm Borden, to take the case. They bring in Frank's former partners, Jeff Stahler and Ron "Foghorn" Leroux. Meanwhile, the same man, who calls himself Richard Lawrence and is known as the "Prank Caller", is calling Frank's apartment and leaving fake messages with Lucy. Eventually, when Lindsay and Jack are called into an FBI cell where he is being held, he promises to give them Lucy if he is given one last chance. As they uncover more clues, the detectives realize that the Prank Caller is a child molester who killed Frank to be the star of his own twisted parody video. He wants to put the videotape on the Internet so others can see how he created his masterpiece. In the end,
